

DERBYSHIRE HEALTH AND WELLBEING BOARD*3 October 2019*Report of the Executive Director for Adult Social Care and Health Derbyshire
County Council*HEALTH AND WELLBEING BOARD ROUND-UP REPORT*1. Purpose of the report

To provide the Board with a round-up of key progress in relation to Health and Wellbeing issues and projects not covered elsewhere on the agenda.

2. Round-Up*Primary Care Networks and Community Pharmacists

The Royal Pharmaceutical Society, BMA and Royal College of General Practitioners have published Primary Care Networks and Community Pharmacists. This statement sets out the opportunities for community pharmacists and Primary Care Networks to work together effectively.

The Autism Act, 10 years on: a report from the All Party Parliamentary Group on Autism on understanding, services and support for autistic people and their families in England

This report is the result of a wide-ranging inquiry across all the areas the autism strategy covers and the issues that matter most to autistic people and their families. The Act has led to welcome improvements in some areas of support and there has been an increasing recognition of autism among commissioners and the public. However, there is still considerable unmet need.

Healthier and happier: an analysis of the fiscal and wellbeing benefits of building more homes for later living

This report commissioned by Homes for Later Living explores the wellbeing benefits of living in properties for later living and the significant fiscal savings they can deliver to the NHS and social care system. The report is the first of three papers making the case for building more homes for later living. Future studies will investigate the positive impact that more homes for later living would have on the wider housing market and will assess the significant benefits that local communities receive from building more homes for later living.

Routing out childhood obesity

This report published by the Royal Society for Public Health outlines recommendations for transforming the street environment, particularly around schools, with the ambition that all children should have access to a healthy route home. During the small window of time that young people travel to and from school every day, the street environment around them has a disproportionate effect on their diet and lifestyle. Building healthy food environments in the school and home are crucial, but these efforts can to some extent be compromised by the world they experience between the school gates and the front door.

Creating healthy lives: a whole-government approach to long-term investment in the nation's health

This paper from the Health Foundation makes the case for an ambitious, whole-government approach to long-term investment in the nation's health. It includes five big shifts needed to embed a shared goal to improve health across the whole of government.

Mental health and the journey to parenthood

This report from Healthwatch shares what parents have said about their experiences of mental health problems during and after pregnancy, and calls on services to give people more opportunities to talk about their mental wellbeing. Over the last year, the Healthwatch network has gathered views and experiences from women and their partners. Each one of these stories was different and highlighted that every person's experience is unique to them.

Whole systems approach to obesity: a guide to support local approaches to promoting a healthy weight

This guidance produced by Public Health England is intended for local authorities and partners, including the NHS, local businesses and the community and voluntary sector. The guide covers the role of local authorities, the benefits of taking a whole systems approach and the six-phase 'how to' process with each phase providing practical support.

Place-based approaches for reducing health inequalities: main report

This guidance published by Public Health England aims to reinforce a common understanding of the complex causes and costs of health inequalities and provide a practical framework and tools for places to reduce health inequalities and provide a practical framework and tools for place to reduce health inequalities. The accompanying documents include a slide set providing a summary and examples of how to use a place-based approach to reduce health inequalities.

Public health apprenticeships

Public Health England has launched a consultation asking for feedback from employers and front-line workers to inform the development of a public health apprenticeship at level three for community-centred roles such as social prescribers, link workers, community connectors and health trainers. The consultation closes on 1 November 2019.

Stoptober campaign

Public Health England has launched this year's Stoptober stop smoking campaign. PHE is encouraging all smokers to join in with the nation's biggest quit attempt, which begins on 1 October 2019. The campaign will target all smokers with new creative content highlighting the benefits of 'breaking up', urging them to re-evaluate their bad relationship with smoking and 'split up'. New data from a national smoking study indicates adult smoking rates fell 2.2% from January to July 2019 - equivalent to 200 fewer smokers every hour.

Mental Healthcare in Young People and Young Adults

This review by the Healthcare Quality Improvement Partnership looks in detail at the mental healthcare provided to young people from the unique perspective of the overlap between physical and mental healthcare, the quality of physical and mental healthcare provided and how patients with mental health conditions use healthcare services. The aim of this study was to identify areas of care that can be improved for all patients aged between 11 and 25 years.

Physical activity guidelines: UK Chief Medical Officers' report

This report presents an update to the 2011 physical activity guidelines issued by the four Chief Medical Officers (CMOs) of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. The UK CMOs draw upon global evidence to present guidelines for different age groups, covering the volume, duration, frequency and type of physical activity required across the life course to achieve health benefits.
